

“ACTT now” and support a school in Tanzania

Did you know that 80% of Tanzanian schools are located in rural areas?
Did you know that less than 30% of Tanzanian schools have electricity?
Did you know that less than 5% of Tanzanian schools have computers?

The fact is that Tanzania is at risk of marginalisation in the information age. You can join Mkombozi's Affordable Computers & Technology for Tanzania (ACTT) project and help to address this situation. ACTT has already established 31 Computer Technology Learning Centres (CTLCs) in rural schools throughout the northern zone. ACTT's goal is to reach at least two thirds of Tanzania's schools (with electricity) by the year 2011 and furnish them with a sustainable, equipped and functional CTLC. ACTT already has an extensive list of schools who are interested in the project. ACTT needs you to support one of these schools and help it to introduce information technology to its curriculum, its students and its community.
